

EdisonLearning About Us

EdisonLearning

EdisonLearning works with educators and communities to improve public schools and boost student performance. Our expertise and the value we bring to our partners rests in nearly 20 years of hands-on experience not only servicing but operating schools in collaboration with districts, boards, and other authorities with whom we partner.

EdisonLearning is the only education company that works hand-in-hand with thousands of principals, teachers, students and families, every day. We understand what it takes to make a difference for every student because we do it ourselves—from curriculum choices to professional development, staff recruitment to student behavior, community relations to enrollment, compliance to technology— and everything else in between.

Innovation propelled by partnership

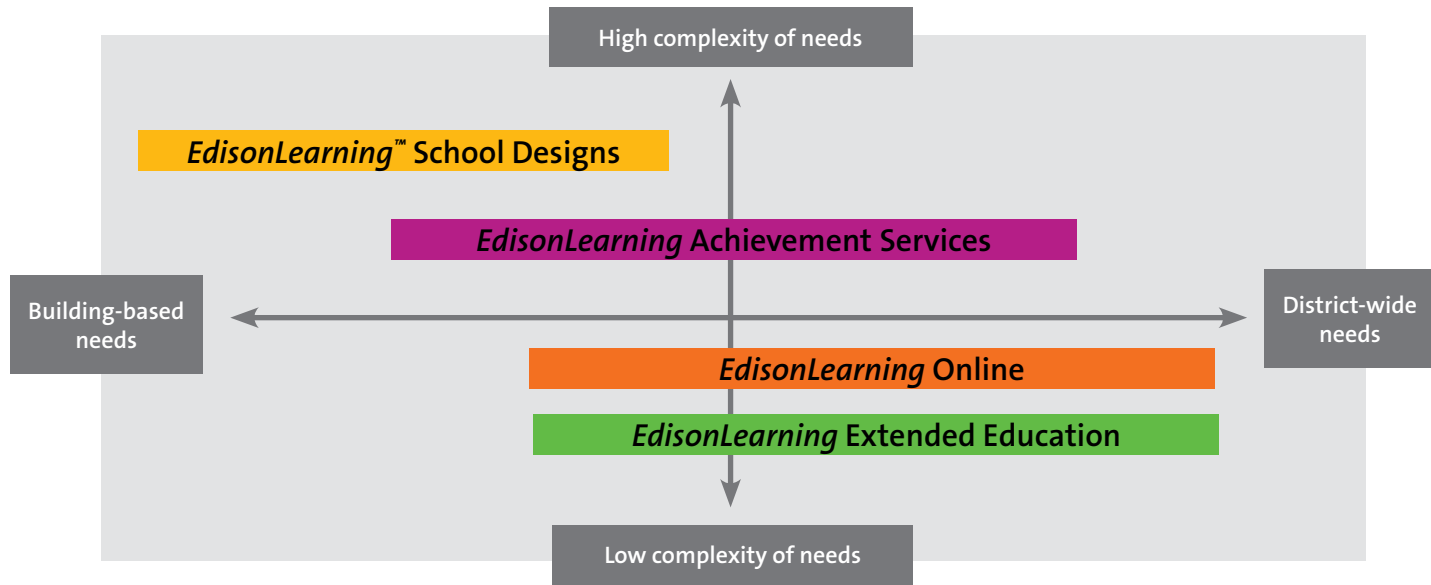

Our unparalleled commitment to innovation is founded in our collaborative approach and exclusive array of end-to-end academic solutions for Pre-K – 12 education. Our extensive portfolio has grown in parallel with the needs of educators, backed by a product development engine powered by ongoing research, rigorous field-based evaluation and proactive business strategies.

It all started with our ground-breaking EdisonLearning™ School Designs. The School Designs model, which has been continuously reviewed and enhanced over the years, created a formula for success that has been leveraged into new offers such as our consultative EdisonLearning Achievement Services engagements and EdisonLearning Extended Education programs. We've also extended our reach globally, through EdisonLearning International™. Today, EdisonLearning is staying on the leading edge of education innovation, applying new technologies and capabilities with EdisonLearning Online.
